JUVENILE COURT CASES

MANLY DEFENSE MADE BY WHITE BOY WHO FISHED IN PARK.

Judge Leathers Has a Case That Involves a Patent Straw Stacker-In the County Courts.

Fred Grant, a little colored boy, seemed to be the greatest offender yesterday in charge of profanity. Judge Stubbs found the boy guilty and as he was so small and because he was in court he was fined $1 and costs. This fine was remitted after the mother of the boy agreed to take him into the basement of the police station and flog him. She did her work well for a few minutes, the screams of the boy could be plainly heard on the third floor.

A little white boy, well dressed, appeared in court to answer to the charge of fishing in a public park. He made a manly defense and said he had been told by a policeman that he could fish from the dam at Riverside Park. Judge Stubbs was much impressed with the lad's statement and gave him a fatherly lecture. The boy was

RESTRAINING ORDER DISSOLVED.

The Suit Involves the Invention of a Straw Stacker.

Judge Leathers has dissolved the temporary restraining order issued on the application of John W. McCullom against James B. Schurman and the Indiana Manufacturing Company. McCullom averred that (Maryland, Judge Pearce), 500.] Schurman was the inventor of a pneumatic strawstacker, all of the details of which ful, but with his assistance it was perfected and letters patent were taken out. | way to the west line of Ritter avenue, and A company was organized, McCullom said, and he was to be superintendent of the concern and receive $1,000 of the stock. Ry. from Schurman for $25,000. McCullom then filed a petition for an injunction to restrain the Indiana Manufacturing Company from paying notes issued to Schurman in payment for the stacker and to prevent Schurman from releasing the letters patent. The transaction had already been made when the petition was filed. The Indiana Manufacturing Company was notified and let the injunction be issued against it to prevent it from paying the notes, as it was | vington.) about $20,000 in their favor to be enjoined. Schurman contested the suit because he wanted his money.

Judge Leathers dissolved the restraining order because McCullom could not show that he was in any way interested in the letters patent or had a claim that could be considered a lien against them, the recourse of McCullom being a suit for damages against Schurman for breach of contract.

SUIT OF ATTORNEYS.

Danville, Ind., Lawyers Allege that a Sum Is Due Them.

Thad S. Adams and Solon A. Enloe, attorneys of Danville, Ind., yesterday filed | nue to College avenue. against Wymond L. They say they gave their services and a judgment for $5,500 was recovered. which was sustained by the Appellate Court, and on June 30, 1902, the street-car company paid to the clerk of Hendricks county $6,640.34 as settlement in full. It is alleged that Becket gave the plaintiffs $550 and retained $114.05, which is yet due.

A Junk Dealers' Quarrel.

A junk dealers' quarrel that started in Justice Smock's court has been appealed to the Superior Court, and it may be carried to still a higher court. Abraham Saperstein, a junk dealer of Clinton, Ind., sold that was due him and brought suit for that amount in the justice's court. The Kathere was a certain number of "I" beams in the scrap iron, but they were not delivered, and they filed a counter claim setting out that their business had been damaged by Saperstein not complying with the contract. Justice Smock gave the Kaminskys judgment for $43. Saperstein's attor neys appealed to the Superior Court, and say if the decision goes against them the case will go to a higher court.

ASSOCIATION

FIRST MEETING OF THE TEN DAYS SESSION BEGINS.

Some Trouble with the Hotel and Grocery Man About Supplies-a Busy Day at Bethany.

Acton Park was taken possession of yesterday by the Holiness Association, which will hold meetings until Aug, 10. The grounds presented a busy scene last evening and the large number of new campers assured a successful session. Yesterday was spent in getting settled and the first night when Mrs. Mattie Wines preached to a large audience. There will be three sermons to-day. In the morning the Rev. Luther Robertson, of Wilmour, Ky., will will speak, and at night the meeting is to be led by Dr. Fowler. Already a number of rooms have been engaged and by to-day it is thought there will be a large number of visitors. Sunday will be a big day. The services will begin at 6 o'clock and continue until late at night.

Although the Holiness meetings began auspiciously, for a time yesterday it looked as if there was to be an unlooked-for thing happen to mar the otherwise pleasant opening. The trouble was the closing of the small grocery in the hotel, where the housewives in the many cottages get the supplies with which they gladden the hearts of the family returning from meeting. The manager of the hotel also runs the grocery, and when he took charge of the place : contract was made which was meant to state that no cigars or groceries were to be sold on Sunday. However, the person who drew up this important document for some unknown reason neglected to insert the word Sunday. This omission, of course, put a stop to the sale of the articles mentioned, and if not changed the small boy about the house would be compelled to go to Acton about a half mile away for all articles which are absolutely essential to the successful household, whether at camp meeting or in a big city. It might be well to say that the association did not want to allow any tobacco sold at all, but was willing for groceries and other things to be sold six days in the week. However, the manager of the hotel being a man of thrift and knowing the desire of the country boy to indulge in the habit which Rallegh introduced and also wishing to accommodate customers, very much desired that he be permitted to sell the forbidden weed. At the same time, in case the Holiness Association did not want him to sell tobacco, he was anxious to live up to the contract, which, of course, would stop the sale of the very much needed supplies of the women in the cottages. Bright and early yesterday morning the president of the association walked into the store and called for some butter. Imagine his surprise when informed by the clerk that no groceries were to be sold, and if he needed that very important article he would have to walk to Acton. This idea was not a pleasant one, and so the "boss" was called. He said that as it was the beginning of the session he would sell that day, but that the contract must be fixed, and that unless he were allowed to sell tobacco no other articles would be sold over the counter. It is very likely the Holiness Association will agree to the sale of some tobacco so that the many tables of the camp housewives will not suffer for lack of groceries.
